VOL. LVIII NO. 48. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY MARCH 2, 1918. ESTABLISHED 1859.

"DRY" FORCES CIRCULATE PETITION TO PLACE SALOON BAN ON BALLOT

The "dry" forces of Redwood City are circulating a petition to be presented to the town trustees next Monday evening providing for the closing of all saloons on July first, 1918, and limiting hotels and restaurants and wholesale liquor stores to the number now in force. Only 154 names are required on the petition and it is said that number has already been secured. Should the trustees refuse to place the dry proposition on the ballot for the coming municipal election the dry forces would then call for a special election to be held some time during the summer. It is believed the trustees will grant the petition. The election takes place on April 8th.

Should the question be submitted to the people at the coming election a lively campaign would be inaugurated by both the wets and drys. It will be the most strenuously fought election every held in Redwood City. The drys will be strongly entrenched by the fact that it is the desire of the government and the officers at Camp Fremont to close Redwood City.

The petition is drafted from the Santa Clara ordinance which was adopted by the voters of that town a few weeks ago. It proposes an ordinance that will not interfere with the use of liquors in private homes, wines for sacramnetal service, or any sold by a pharmacist upon a prescription of a physician, but not more than one sale can be made on any prescription.

Wine and malt liquors may be sold under the proposed ordinance by seven (the present number) hotels and restaurants in diningrooms between the hours of 11 a. m. and 9 cents, exclusive of the wine or beer.

Four permits may be granted to sell liquor in packages or a wholesale license. There are four places now doing business under a similar provision of the ordinance now in force. No sales may be made on holidays or Sundays and only between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m.

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

R. J. Letts, the local insurance man, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of County Recorder. Mr. Letts says he has been all over the county and has been urged by many to make the race. He will start immediately to canvass voters pledging them to do his full duty if elected. Mr. Letts is a man of ability being thoroughly qualified to perform the duties of the office. Mr. Letts is well-known throughout the peninsula.

Byrant Cronf was here yesterday from Fort Scott. He joined the quartermaster's department there two weebs ago.

PHELPS' ESTATE EXECUTORS GIVEN ORDER TO MORTGAGE

On Tuesday Judge Buck made an order directing the executors of the Josephine A. Phelps estate to mortgage the property of the estate to the amount of $17,000 to pay the United States tax and the second installment of the county taxes. Should the executors fail to dispose of any portion of the property before June next, when other big obligations will become due, then the executors may still further mortgage the realty to the extent of $38,000. It is believed that the Spring Valley Water Company will purchase 970 acres of land near its holdings for $100,000. This would pay the present debts and the annuities.

TESURUN HOLDS ABSTRACT OF PART OF RANCHO DE LAS PULGAS

By EDWARD TESURUN

The article in The Chronicle of January 27, 1918, on "The Author of the Consolidation Act" was read by me with great interest not only because later on I became acquainted with some of the younger generation of the Hawes family, but also on account of my having in charge, for the present at least, an abstract of that part of the Rancho de las Pulgas acquired by Horace Hawes by foreclosure of a mortgage given by William Carey Jones on July 1, 1853, for $20,000 for one year at 2 per cent a month.

This tract contained 2019.71 acres, or as the mortgage says, 2020 acres, more or less. Although the patent from the United States signed by President Buchanan to the whole Rancho de las Pulgas and covering 35,240 acres, and a fraction, was not issued until October 18, 1857, and then to Solidad Ortega de Arguella, Jose Ramone Arguella, Luis Antonio Arguella and S. M. Mezes, the various owners commenced to deal in one way or another in 1851, when a deed to an undivided one-fifth of the rancho was made to William Carey Jones.

Deed Acknowledged

This deed, in the Spanish language, was acknowledged in Los Angeles before W. G. Dryden, N. P.; witness, John C. Fremont, and recorded in San Francisco county July 29, 1851, and as the abstract says, purports to convey an undivided one-fifth part of the Rancho de las Pulgas. It woud appear that this deed was given in suport of the covenant entered into between the above-mentioned owners and Jones and Strobe, attorneys at law, which covenant was to the effect that the second parties were to undertake to present and defend the title of the Rancho de las Pulgas before the Land Commissioners of the United States, etc. For some reason the covenant was dated a couple of months later, that is to say, September 26, 1851.

This abstract contains many names among those of witnesses and notaries, familiar in San Franacisco history, in so far as they were used in naming some of San Francisco's thoroughfares, such as John C. Fremont, W. T. Gough, James Van Ness, T. A. Lynch, W. F. Swayse, F. P. Tracy, George T. Knox, John Hesketh, L. W. Sloat, P. W. Tompkins, James Manson, D. P. Belknap, D. Frazier and others.

Descriptions Curious

The description by the surveyors of the various pieces of land comprising the rancho and of those pieces acquired by Hawes are of course, to a degree curious, running, for instance, from a granite monument to an oak sapling, thence to a live oak blazed "B. T.," thence to a bay tree marked "X", etc., until we get to "Owen McGarvey's lot" size of lot not given. I might say that the oak saplings, the live oak and the bay tree may have long since gone to the wood pile.

It seems that in 1868 Hawes, et al., were sued by Jessie A. Fremont et al., for in interest in the property, which suit it seems Hawes was successful in contesting, probably with the assistance of W. T. Wallace of counsel.

It was on February 24, 1871, that Horace Hawes executed a deed of trust before J. H. Blood, N. P., to Horatio Stebbins, George H. Haward, John K. Britton, Horace Davis and Edward P. Evans. This was a deed of foundation of Mount Eagle University, and transferred the whole 2019.71 acres to said trustees.

Hawes died on March 12 ,1871, only about two weeks after executing the above deed of trust, and then the litigation broke loose; J. C. Bates, attorney; W. H. L. Barnes of counsel; final decree by E. W. McKinstry, Judge.

MOSQUITO KILLERS MISTAKE DEAD DOG FOR HUMAN CORPSE

Burley Murray, head of the mosquito inspectors, was at work with a number of his men at the mouth of the San Francisquito creek last Monday when the remains of a supposed human being was unearthed. Murray rushed to the sheriff's office here to have that official take charge of the cadaver. Coroner Brooke was notified and he in turn ordered his deputy, John Layng of this city, to secure the remains and investigate the case. The genial deputy hastened to the creek with his assistant and began an investigation. He discovered that the bones of the supposed human were those of a large dog. Mr. Layng somewhat chagrined returned to Redwood City.

CIVILIAN RELIEF COMMITTEE TO SYSTEMATIZE WORK

That offerings from the public to the families of soldiers in need who reside in Redwood City, Woodside or Portola, may be handled in an inteligent and systematic method, the Civilian Relief Committee of Redwood City Chapter of the Red Cross announces and respectfully requests that everyone who is inclined to aid in the good work notify the chairman Daniel R. Stafford, Mrs. M. E. Hanson or Miss Lucille Holden of such intention.

Plainly stated the purpose of the Committee is to see that all donations to any family should be known in our office so that there may be no extravagant help offered in one case and in the next the requirements of those in need would not be taken care of.

If Mrs. A. is anxious to the extent of one, five or ten dollars in foods, kindly let us have that information and we will list it and when the occasion develops for the use of this order we will then notify Mrs. A. that a soldiers family at a certain address would accept of her offering and then she may place the order with her grocer, butcher or baker and have same delivered to the residence.

In this manner proper and benevoleint aid will be granted to all who are entitled to receive it, and the distribution of all articles and foods will be handled in a conservative and efficient manner.

PIONEER SCHOOL TEACHER PASSES AWAY AT BELMONT

Philip Prior, one of the oldest and best-known grammar school principals in San Francisco, passed away in Belmont last Monday from an ailment brought on by a capital operation he underwent last October.

He was 74 years old and a native of Maryland. He was graduated with first honors from the Baltimore Peabody Institute at the age of 17, and took up teaching as a professor of mathematics in Napa College in 1864. In 1866 he came to San Francisco and for a number of years served as submaster of the old Lincoln Grammar School, where many of this city's most influential men were his pupils. In 1869 he was appointed principal of the Union Grammar School.

From 1874 to 1876 he taught school in Salinas, returning to San Francisco and re-entering the School deartment in 1878. For the last fifteen years he has been principal of the Bay View Grammar School. About two months ago ill health forced him to retire.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Nellie Prior; his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Hunter of Lomita Park, and a son Don Prior.

Mr. Prior resided in Redwood City up until a short time ago when advancing years compelled him to live in the city. In the eighties he was prominent in the politics of the county being for several terms chairman of the county democratic central committee. During the later portion of his life he leaned toward the Republican party.

The funeral took place on Thursday, several of his former pupils acting as pall-bearers. Col. George Pippey of Burlingame represented the Lincoln School Association.

BOY VIOLINIST IN RECITAL AT LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

At 3:15 next Tuesday Paul Iogolevitch, the noted Russian boy violinist, will give a recital at the high school assembly hall. The admission has been fixed at 25 cents, half the lowest you would pay in the city to hear him. He was trained by the same teacher as Elman and Zimbalist, and already at 17 ranks with them. He served in the Russian army as a soldier and was wounded four times and has been decorated for bravery. At 10:00 a. m., he appears before the San Jose high school, and at 1 p. m. before the Normal. At 3:15 he will be at the high school, which will receive a share of the proceeds. This is the first chance to hear a great artist here at home.

C. E. MAHHORST TO MANAGE ARIZONA MINING PROPERTY

Charles E. Nathhorst, who conducted the Bell theatre several years ago and for some time engaged in the moving picture business in San Diego, has disposed of his theatre in the southern city and has departed for Arizona. Mr. Nathhorst was for a number of years an assayer and mining engineer for several of the big copper mines of the southwest. At Arizona he is to be manager of one of the large groups of the Clark interests.

CONGRESSMAN HAYES REFUTES STATEMENT OF WITHDRAWAL

Mr. D. E. O'Keefe,
Times-Gazette, Redwood City, Cal.
My Dear Sir:

I am enclosing you herewith copy of a leteer I have today forwarded to Mr. Duncan McPherson, which is self-eplanatory. So many rumors have been set afoot by those interested in seeing me retired from Congress, that it occured to me that what I said to McPherson might interest you and your readers. With this thought, I am handing you enclosed copy of his letter. This, or any part of it, you are free to use in the columns of your paper if you so desire.

Very sincerely yours,
E. A. HAYES.

Mr. Duncan McPherson,
Santa Cruz, Cal.
My Dear Friend:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your kind and valued favor of the fourth instant.

First, let me thank you heartily for your expressions of friendship and confidence, which I deeply appreciate. I have been so absorbed with the important work of Congress since I returned here that until your letter came I had given no thought to the question of my candidacy for re-election, concerning which you ask some expression from me.

Since the reception of your letter there have come to my desk in some of my newspaper clippings from Santa Cruz county, suggestions that I am not loyally supporting the government, in the prosecution of the war, and that, therefore, I should be displaced by some man who would do this.

I want to notify these embryo statesmen who are pining to fill the official seat which I now occupy, and who, with their friends, think to push me aside by casting doubts upon my patriotism or Americanism, that this is by no means the line of least resistance to the goal of their ambitions. However willing I might be to oblige these ambitious gentlemen by quietly yielding the field to them under other circumstances, if they are planning to retire me by charging me with lukewarmness or indifference when my country and its people are in a struggle which calls for the best in every American, they will finally waken to the fact that they have made it impossible for me to retire at all.

If this is their plan, it is fortunate that my health is now such that I shall be able to give them all the fight they want.

Whatever I may have thought of war when the question was up for settlement—and it was a part of my responsibility to decide that most awful question—after the constituted authority of my government decided for war and provided for the method of raising its army, that settled it for me, as it should for me, as it should for every true American. From that time I have been behind my government with the best in me, and shall be so until the end. I have supported it with my money; with my influence upon every occasion through the Mercury-Herald, in which I am pecunfarily interested; upon the public platform, and here, by voice and vote.

A few days before the reception of your letter, the Alien Slacker Bill, which I joined in reporting from the Committee on Immigration and Naturlization, was before the house. As ranking Republican on the Committee, I opened the debate for the Republicans who spoke in its favor, and I am enclosing a leaf from the Congressional Record containing part of what I said in that debate, which will tell you how I feel better than anything I can write.

If things are to take the course indicated by the clippings to which I have above referred, as I presume they will, I shall probably be obliged to be a candidate for re-election in self-defense, whether otherwise I should care to be, or not.

I trust that your health continues good. Please present my best regards to all my friends there, and especially to those connected with The Sentinel, and believe me, with kind personal regards and best wishes,

Sincerely your friend,
E. A. HAYES.

Suit Dismissed

The case of H. S. Tittle against Lydia Dugan and others has been dismissed in the superior court. The notice of dismissal was filed in the county clerk's office yesterday.

CORONERS JURY RENDER ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT

The jury empanelled by Coroner W. A. Brooke to investigate the death of Patrick Burns, who was killed on the highway near Menlo Park last Sunday night, brought in a verdict on Thursday of accidental death. Burns was coming home from Redwood City with a companion when he was run into by a machine driven by R. C. Woods, a Palo Alto business man. Burns was almost killed instantly. The jury attached no blame to the driver of the automobile.

Burns was a native of Scotland, aged 53 years. He was well-known in Menlo Park where he had resided for some years. He did odd jobs there and was known as a good worker. Burns was interred in Union Cemetery on Wednesday. He had no relatives in this state.

REDWOOD CITY POLITICAL POT BEGINNING TO BOIL

There promises to be a lively contest for the two vacancies on the town board at the coming election in April. The terms of Mr. Tuchsen and Edward Sampson expire. The former has declined to again become a candidate and it is known that Mr. Sampson will not run. However his friends are urging him to stand for reelection knowing he will be elected. His record on the board woud insure this.

Those who would like to become town fathers are: George Kreiss, M. E. Ryan, Theodore Fowler, C. M. Doxsee, Floyd Baird and W. F. Yearian. W. A. Price, the city clerk, will be a candidate for re-election. Thus far there seems to be no one prepared to measuore swords with him for the office, although it was rumored yesterday that the people of Redwood Highlands were grooming a dark horse to be pitted against him. This colored steed may elect to remain in the back ground until the last moment.

BRINGS SUIT FOR PERSONAL INJURIES RECEIVED

D. Lencione has brought an action in the superior court against P. Benner to recover damages in the sum of $1010 for personal injuries received by the alleged carelessness of defendant. The complaint alleges that plaintiff was alighting from his bread wagon on Grand avenue, South San Francisco, when he was run into by an automobile driven by defendant. Lencione was badly injured and was laid up for a period of three months.

F. G. Halsey Dies at Santa Clara

Francis Gerald Halsey, a former resident of Woodside, passed away at Santa Cuara on Monday last. The deceased at one time was prominent in the politics of the county and for some time was the chairman of the Democratic County Committee. Gerald Halsey, the well-known San Francisco attorney is his son. Mr. Halsey is survived by his widow, Mrs. F. S. Halsey and two children, Mildred and Gerald Halsey. Mr. Halsey was well-known and highly respected throughout the county.

FACTS FAIL TO JUSTIFY STRICTURES OF COMMANDERS OF CAMP FREMONT

That there have been strong manifestations of indignation among the residents of Redwood City toward the officials of Camp Fremont during the past week can not be considered a matter of wonderment. That officers high in command at the military cantonment should have allowed themselves to be quoted by the public press as authors of criticisms of moral conditions existing in this city, without first having taken reasonable pains to verify the foundation for their opinions, has naturally been a cause for adverse comment.

Especially is this true in view of the fact that the officials of the city, as well as citizens generally, have always evinced a ready willingness to comply with every suggestion offered for the strengthening of legal restrictions surrounding moral conditions. Every limitation upon the sale of intoxicants asked for by the officers of Camp Fremont has been unhesitatingly adopted by the city council, while it is unquestioned that the effort to enforce the restrictions imposed.

Nor is this all. Citizens of Redwood City have gone even further than this. Every effort has been made to provide for the moral welfare of the soldiers who may come into our midst. As far as possible, means have been taken to provide places of clean and wholesome amusement for the men.

Of course, there have been violabeen in every other community. In Redwood City, as elsewhere, there may be men—a few of them, thank goodness—who are lacking in patriotism, who consider private gain above national honor. But certain it is, Redwood City is no worse in this respect than are her neighbors. No other community within the purviews of Camp Fremont has ever evinced a greater willingness to protect the men of the army against the dangers to themselves, or to aid the officers in their efforts to improve their surroundings.

In the case in question, it would seem that the officials at Camp Fremont must have spoken without fully weighing the import of their words. So far as can be ascertained, the automobile which was the cause of the fatal misshap passed through the business portion of the city, merely driving through the city over the state highway, upon which no saloons are permitted to locate. Unquestionably whatever of liquors may have been found in the possession of the driver of the ill-fated automobile must have been secured at some other point—possibly in the northern end of the county, possibly in San Fraancisco—certainly not in Redwood City.

Certainly the criticism in this case was unjust and to a large extent unwarranted. While it may lead to still stronger limitations upon the sale of liquors—may possibly result in the elimination entirely from our midst of the saloon—this will not entirely cure the evil complained of. communities within easy reach of Camp Fremont where the saloon has been eliminated soldiers not only can, but often do, obtain liquors. Conditions in Redwood City may not be entirely ideal, but so long as the officials of the city evince a disposition to aid in their improvement, we should not be subject to invidious criticism.

WAR SAVINGS COMMITTEE HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

An enthusiastic meeting of the Redwood City War Savings Committeemen's meeting room on last Tuesday evening. There were over fifty in attendance and the question of the sale of thrift stamps in Redwood City was discussed from every angle and many valuable suggestions made.

Mr Henry Steinberger reported that all the employees of the Frank Tannery were weekly purchasers of thrift stamps, and Mr. Monteith, principal of the grammar schools, stated that nearly all the children of the schools were interested in the work. Reports from the different fraternal organizations in town showed that a systematic campaign is being made.

A committee composed of Mark Ryan, Dan Stafford and Henry Steinberger was appointed by Chairman Nash to erect a pole in some prominent part of town showing Redwood City's quota in the Thrift Stamp Campaign and the weekly sales—the idea being to keep before the people of this community what is being done in the sale of Thrift Stamps.

The co-operation of the merchants in this campaign was discussed at some length. Chairman Nash stated that the Government must and will obtain what it needs and the only question is whether the merchants co-operate in bringing home to the people the necessity of saving, or whether they resist and continue to urge the people to buy in the same amounts or in greater amounts than in peace time.

It will not be long before the people will understand that a merchant who is co-operating actively in the War-Savings Campaign is doing his patriotic duty and should be patroniezd, while a merchant who is not cooperating actively or at all is in fact retarding the war machine and is not entitled to patronage by patriotic Americans.

REDWOOD HOME GUARDS NEED MORE RECRUITS

Company 30, California Home Guards, held a business meeting in and decided to continue its existence The attendance for the past few months had been so small that no new work could be attempted. During the next week an endeavor will be made to secure at least 20 new members who will pledge themselves to attend and drill. While the guards may not be needed, the occasion may arise when their services will be required by the government. Anyone desiring to become affiliated with them are welcome at the gymnasium Thursday nights.

CITY NEEDS STRONG MEN

Yielding to the importunities and urgings of a number of friends and citizens generally who have the welfare of the city at heart, C. M. Doxsee has consented to the announcement of his candidacy for town trustee at the coming city election. This is an announcement which will be received with pleasure by a large element of the voters of Redwood City, for just at this time exceptionally strong men are needed in the law making body of the city.

A resident of the eastern residential district of the city, this will provide an appropriate successor to Trustee Tuchsen. As a man who has been long and intimately connected with the business interests of the city, Mr. Doxsee is exceptionally well equipped for the duties of the office for which he invites the suffrages of his fellow citizens. His long residence here has thoroughly familiarized him with the needs of the city.

As a well informed business man, he can be depended upon to care for its financial interests. As a man of the utmost probity of character, he can be depended upon to legislate for the betterment of its moral conditions. As a man of cool judgment, he can be depended upon to act in all cases with deliberation.

Card of Thanks

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

STORY NO. 22. By CLAUDE FOX

Do you know Michael F. Brown, head of the traffic squad of San Mateo county? If so, you are to be congratulated, in more ways than one; if not, permit me to inform you that you are minus something, for you have missed the acquaintance of a splendid fellow. But do not be discouraged, for there is still hope for those who do not know him. Mr. Brown is not a distant man, but on the contrary, far from it. Listen a moment and I will put you wise as to the surest way to establish a feeling of good fellowship between yourself and the man above referred to.

Just wait until the man who loudly proclaimed that this was going to be a dry season is properly interred, and then some fine morning after breakfast, run your machine out of the garage and prepare to take a little spin. Head northward on the highway. Don't hurry; there is no necessity for any show of speed, as yet. Let her creep along on the low until the engine gets warmed up. If you are of the male persuasion, just light a perfecto and through the rings of tobacco smoke admire the scenery as you drive along; if you are of the gentler sex, anticipate the extreme pleasure in store for you. Remember you are about to become acquainted with M. F. Brown. By the time you reach Beresford your engine should be running perfectly. Now is the time for action, so get busy. Throw her into the high and bowl along as though you owned all creation. Don't pay any attention to your speedometer. Wave a defy to the engineer on that north bound train and give him to understand that you will meet him at Millbrae. It is early so the highway will not be overcrowded and you will have pretty fair sailing. If your speed precludes the possibility of reading the signs on the road houses as you go by, don't worry. You now have two objectives, the first to meet Mr. Brown and the second to beat that S. P. train into the Millbrae depot. Keep going and probably you will accomplish both. San Mateo is soon left behind and you are nearing Burlingame. Suddenly you become aware of the fact that a machine is coming up behind you and gradually gaining. You have been going pretty fast yourself, so the party who is now overtaking you must evidently be after a physician for some serious case. You soon realize from the sounds that it is a motorcycle and you instinctively pull out a little to the right to make more room. The engine on the motorcycle is slowing down perceptibly. In a few moments it is abreast of you. The gentleman driving it raises his right hand. Now don't make a mistake and imagine that is a challenge for a race. Quite different, I assure you. It is a signal to slow down and stop, which you should proceed to do. The two-wheeled vehicle does likewise and chugs up to a standstill just as you stop your machine. There alights a medium sized, square shouldered, good-looking man, with smooth face and dark hair slightly tinged with gray. He is dressed in the uniform of San Mateo county's traffic squad. With a smile he bids you good morning, as he draws a little memorandum book from his pocket, politely requests your name and address, takes the number of your machine, informs you that forty-eight miles per hour slightly exceeds the speed limit, and directs you to appear before the Justice of the Peace at San Mateo the following morning at ten o'clock A. M. Then he raises his cap, tunes up his machine and bids you good bye. You have probably been too busy to notice, but the north bound S. P. flyer has passed and the engineer has won the race to Millbrae depot. But what care you. You have met and become acquainted with Michael F. Brown.

Now I have stated that Mr. Brown was a splendid fellow. He is more than that. It would be unnatural for him to be anything but a gentleman, for he had as fine a father and mother as you would ever want to meet. Mr. Brown, Sr., was the pioneer blacksmith of San Mateo, a man whose word was as good as his bond, of strict integrity, and a character which commanded the respect of every one with whom he came in contact. Mrs. Brown was one of those home-loving motherly women, whose chief ambition in life was the welfare of her husband and children.

Mike and I were schoolboys together at St. Matthew's and as he was as badly afflicted with "duckitis" as myself, it was no more than natural that we should become chums and firm friends, a friendship which has been cemented through the many years that have since passed. On the third season after my first pal, "Bill" and myself had commenced operations against the web-foots, and both of us felt, without any undue degree of conceit, that we were fair wing shots, I received an invitation from Mike to come down to his home and spend the day in duck shooting on the marshes at San Mateo. Now an invitation to go duck hunting was seized by me with more avidity and pleasure than would be the presentation of a season ticket to the Mechanic's Fair in San Francisco, which in those days was some attraction, so I bundled up my hunting clothes and took an early train to San Mateo. Mike met me at the depot and as his home was but a few blocks away we were soon making ready for our journey into the marshland, ground over which I had never hunted, and with which I was unfamiliar. At the Brown home hospitality permeated the very air. Nothing was left undone for my pleasure and comfort and I shall have to become many years older than I am today before I shall ever forget the generous unselfish, welcome accorded me by Mike's father and mother and brothers.

Our destination was the Howard marsh just south of Coyote Point, and we planned to shoot that afternoon and evening, so after a hearty dinner, we tucked away in our hunting coats a sumptuous lunch which Mrs. Brown had wrapped up and we were off.

If there was one reason more than any other why I accepted that invitation to go duck hunting with such eagerness, it was by reason of the fact that Mike Brown was the owner of the finest hunting dog that it has ever been my fortune to hunt over. During my shooting career I have owned two spaniels that possessed to a marked degree intelligence and faithfulness and have seen and shot over other dogs that were highly bred and grand retrievers, but when it comes to selecting the finest of the fine, I would place on the pinacle of dog-fame the black and white spaniel called "Sam" then owned by my friend and schoolmate. That dog was not human, but he was so close to it that during his work in the retrieving of wild ducks, it was difficult to draw any distinction. True he could not speak, except with his eyes, but he understood every word his master spoke to him as well as a four year old child comprehends the utterances of its mother. You will pass on the street every day human beings who do not possess the gray matter beneath their craniums that existed in the head of dear old "Sam". Mike at that time had two young dogs, beautiful specimens, that he was training with the old dog as instructor. But I am getting ahead of my story.

I found that "duckitis" was not alone confined to Redwood City. The germ of the disease, if I may call it such, had also invaded our sister city. There was quite a number afflicted, among them John C. Maynard, his two sons Chick and Bert, W. B. Lawrence, Ed. Greene, Jack Coleman, Thomas Byrnes, Ed. Goodspeed, the Bartlett boys, George and Frank, Jack Powers, the Casey boys, Allie Potter, B. C. Murray, Ed. Batchelder, Webb Donnelly, Jack Walker and many others, some of whom are still living, the balance having passed "over there."

The Howard family, who owned the marshland over which we shot, had some years before erected a levee along the bay shore from Coyote Point east and southeast to the mouth of San Mateo Creek and westward toward the mainland and at the time of my visit the marshland had been reclaimed to such an extent that the salt water had completely evaporated and the ground had cracked open all over its surface, making fissures from one to two feet wide and three to four feet deep, which afforded excellent places of concealment to drop into when a flock of the broadbills was headed your way.

Duck Hunting Reminisences

Down below the Lawrence home we crossed the San Mateo Creek and headed northward toward Coyote Point, walking along a well worn trail made by duck hunters who had gone before. A number of sloughs that meandered through the enclosed land had filled nearly to their banks with rain water and here was where the wild ducks of the bay sought food and shelter in rough weather a protection which resulted to many of them in death.

Mike Brown demonstrated to me that day that he was not only a good wing shot but an apt pupil in studying the habits of the quack-quacks.

Taking particular pains to leave home early enough to secure the best location along the line of flight we found ourselves snugly settled at a sharp turn in one of the creeks and ready for business long before the other nimrods appeared to participate in the shoot. When Mr. Maynard and his two boys arrived about two o'clock and stopped a couple of hundred yards above us I could plainly hear a family discussion in which some sharp cuss words were used, all because that fellow Mike Brown was ahead of them on the job. The main creek came directly in from the eastward for about two hundred yards and then at the point where we were located turned almost at a right angle to the north. The result was that when the ducks came flying in from the bay there were two lines of flight along the creek which converged at the point where we sat. We usually got the first shots, the boys above us taking what was left. Wise boy Mike.

Along about one o'clock the tide started on the flood and as it did so the wind sprung up from the northwest. In less than an hour's time the bay was rolling and tossing with big waves capped with foam. Wild ducks do not stand for such weather very long. They are going to move and find shelter. This day was no exception. It was not long before Mike sung out "Look out here they come." We were about ten feet apart standing up in a wide crack in the marsh which left just our heads and shoulders in view. Old "Sam" and the two young dogs were lying in the grass beside their master their muscles taught with every nerve on the high, knowing full well what was coming. It was a flock of widgeon beating in from the storm tossed waters of the bay. They hit the north fork of the creek and came right down toward us thirty yards high. "All right" called my partner, and the four shots rang out close together. Three birds came down, one falling right between us while the other two landed in the water of the creek. Right there the opportunity came to show the intelligence of that grand old dog "Sam." Mike had reached over and picked up the duck that fell between us and the two young dogs had dashed into the creek. "Look at Sam" called Mike. I looked. The old dog was standing quivering in every nerve, his right foot raised, and his eyes glued on the balance of that flock of widgeon which were heading out toward the bay. Suddenly one of the birds in the flock set its wings, sailed to one side out of the flock and pitched to the ground one hundred and fifty yards away. Then there was action on the part of "Sam." Over the marsh he fairly flew, jumping the cracks and heading straight for the spot where that duck had fallen. For a moment we lost sight of him, then all we could see was the tip of his tail as he clambered up backward with a big drake widgeon in his mouth. Mike patted him affectionately as he came romping back. The pups had secured but one of the ducks which had fallen in the water. The other bird was a cripple and had fooled the dogs, but "Sam" was more than equal to the occasion. "Dead duck" said Mike, as he pointed to the creek In went the old fellow with his pupils after him, but the youngsters swam around in the middle of the creek. "Sam" was too wise to waste his energy in that way. Overhanging the banks of the creek was a growth of coarse crinkley grass which afforded an excellent hiding place for a crippled duck and the wise old dog knew it just as well as the man who owned him. Swimming to the farther bank "Sam" ducked his head under the overhanging grass and went down the creek a distance of fifty yards. Coming out he swam across and duplicated the performance under the grass hanging from the bank on which we were standing. When about half way back to us there was a noise from under the bank which sounded like wuff-wuff. He's got him" cried my partner, and sure enough out came "Sam" swimming proudly with a crippled widgeon. I could have hugged that dog, but there was no time for loving demonstrations. The tide was rising rapidly, the wind increasing and flock after flock of ducks were flying up and down the bay. Then they headed shoreward and we had a duck picnic from then on until after dark. Flock followed flock and the boys above and off to the south of us were hammering away with good results. Our dogs would not have time to retrieve the fallen birds after we had both shot before more would come tumbling out of the air. Sometimes a half dozen ducks would be down at once. Then the young dogs would get excited. We would have to quit shooting until the birds were brought in. On these occasions old "Sam" would never loose his head. Never would he retrieve a dead duck if a crippled one was in sight. He seemed to take special delight in performing the hardest part of the work and even evinced signs of jealousy if one of his pupils started after a cripple. Every duck that was hit hard but sailed away some distance before falling was sure to be retrieved and several times during the afternoon the overhanging grass on the banks yielded up a cripple that nine dogs out of ten would never have recovered. Along between four and five o'clock the ducks were coming in so fast that we hardly knew which one of the flocks to shoot at. Then above the sounds of the banging around us came the deep resonant note of the honker's call. Some of the boys coming down through the uplands had raised a flock and they were leading out to the bay directly toward us. We had been using No. six and seven shot which I knew was too small for the big fellows unless they came over very low. In the top pocket of my hunting coat I had two brass shells loaded with buck shot. These brass shells had a nasty habit of swelling when they became damp or used for a long time, and the first one I tried to get into the gun stuck fast about to be done and that quickly. Jumping up I kicked the shell with the heel of my gum boot until it passed the breech and clamped the gun together just before the honkers reached us. As they came over probably between fifty and sixty yards high we both let go with our small shot without result, then I turned loose the right barrel containing the buck shot. A big fellow in the middle of the flock twisted around in the air, doubled up and came straight down into the middle of the creek, throwing the water ten feet in the air. All three dogs piled in at once, but "Sam" uttered a low growl as much as to say, "stand clear, this is my business." Oh! For a camera to take a picture of that sight. The old dog reached the honker first, caught him by one wing and started swimming slowly toward us, the young dogs trailing behind as though they realized that interference would cause trouble. That goose weighed eleven pounds and when the bank of the creek was reached Mike had to stoop down and take him from the dog's mouth while still in the water. One of the buck shot had struck square in the neck breaking it clean. All the boys up the marsh above us thought I possessed the finest shooting gun in the state and it was not until some time afterwards that we let the cat out of the bag by informing them it was a single buck shot that brought the big honker down.

Shortly after dark we strapped up our ducks, some forty odd, nearly all large ones, and returned to the Brown home, where I spent the night. After breakfast the next morning I bid the family goodbye with considerable regret, for parting carried with it the full realization of the generous, homelike hospitality extended to me, the glorious shoot I had participated in on the marshes at San Mateo, and the noble intelligent work of that old dog "Sam", whose equal in the shape of man's best friend, I never epect to see again.

Do you blame me now for saying that Michael F. Brown is a splendid fellow, or will you be angry with me for placing you in a position to become acquainted with the gentleman on the highway near Burlingame? In all human probability when the Justice Court convenes at San Mateo at 10 o'clock A. M. the first man to rise address the Judge and say a good word in your behalf will be Michael F. Brown head of the traffic squad of San Mateo County.

Mrs. Franak Madonna of Halfmoon Bay was in Redwood City on Tuesday on a business trip and visiting friends. Mrs. Madonna recently returned from an interesting trip to Camp Lewis, where she visited her son, Quillico, who went to that cantonment some months ago.

Claude Fox is laid up at his home on El Camino Real having stepped on a nail which penetrated his foot. He will not be able to return to his duties until late next week. Mr. Fox is an acomplished short story writer His duck articles appearing in this paper at intervals are read with interest.

McKinley Reynolds, brother of F. A. Reynolds the local attorney, departed for France yesterday where he will be attached to the dental department of the army. He had been attending the State University, taking a course in the dental college for the past two years. He left his studies to join the colors.

Superintendent of Schools, Roy W. Cloud, received a notice yesterday from Sacramento announcing the apportionment of funds. San Mateo county's share of state school money for the present time is $35,707.96. In addition to this the high schools of the county receive $4.045.45. The proportion for Sequoia high school is $835.35.

The fire department was called out Sunday night by a small fire in Pat Foley's barn. A bale of hay caught fire and soon burned a hole through the wall. Mark Ryan and his fire fighters pushed the hay out onto the ground, chopped out about six boards and called it a night's work. The fire whistle blew two blasts, the boys of the different companies answered roll call and the fire was over.

REPORT OF SESSION OF SUPERVISORS

The board of supervisors met in adjourned session Monday, Feb. 25, C. V. Thompson, presiding, T. L. Hickey, Wm. H. Brown, John MacBain and Jos. M. Francis.

A statement showing a claim amounting to $536.46 and being for water supplied E. H. Sundgerg, in connection with his contract for constructing the street and sidewalk in Lomita Park Improvement District, was presented by the Lomita Park Water Works. The claim was ordered filed.

This being the day set for taking action on the proposed ordinance for regulating the jitney busses and autotrucks in the county, District Attorney Swart addressed the board in the matter and stated that since the last meeting when the ordinance was presented and read by him he had heard no objections to it.

Supervisor Brown stated that insofar as he had heard, the proposed ordinance met with the approval of all persons interested. He moved that the ordinance be adopted as read. The motion was seconded by Supervisor Hickey and carried, all the members of the board voting "yes" on roll call.

Supervisor Brown addressed the board in reference to the jitney bus operators taking out the bonds required of them in the ordinance, with reliable bonding companies.

After a discussion of the matter, it was decided, on motion of Brown, seconded by Hickey, to submit the names of all bonding companies in the various applications for motor bus permits to the district attorney for his approval.

Supervisor MacBain addressed the board and stated that in a conversation with Judge Buck previous to the meeting, the latter had suggested that the supervisors inspect the old jail in a body and ascertain if the building could not be utilized in some way as a detention home for juveniles and undesirable women.

District Attorney Swart addressed the board in the above and urged that the question of looking into the advisability of using a portion of the old jail for a detention home be looked into without delay.

At the suggestion of Supervisor MacBain, the board decided to visit the old jail in a body upon adjournment and then take up the matter at the first meeting in March.

County Surveyor J. V. Neuman submitted a report he had received from the Railroad Cimmissioners, in which recommendations were made for closing the following railroad crossings between San Mateo and Redwood City; all of which it was stated in the report, had been rendered unserviceable on acount of the construction of the State highway on the west side of the railroad track.

O'Neal avenue, Belmont, Leo avenue, Belmont; Swift avenue, Belmont; Spring Valley Pumping plant crossing at San Carlos; Hull crossing at San Carlos; Brittan Lane at San Carlos and White Oaks crossing, north of Redwood City.

Weeden Bros., of Menlo Park were granted a permit, on motion of MacBain, seconded by Brown, to erect a building at the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and the State highway in Menlo Park.

Further hearing in the matter of the application of the Girls' Organization Committee of the War Camp Community Service for the appointment of a special woman protective oficer to look after young girls in the county, was taken up at this time, Mrs. Henry Ward Brown, the president of the committee and a number of the members being present at the meeting.

Mrs. Brown addressed the board and spoke about the urgent necessity of having such an officer appointed in the county at the present time and recommended the name of Mrs. Frederick Hartell of San Francisco, formerly of Menlo Park for the position.

Mrs. George H. Irving of Redwood City and connected with the Juvenile Association in San Franacisco, addressed the board in reference to the qualifications of Mrs. Hartell for the above position.

Mrs. Ella L. Shaffer of San Bruno, a widow, whose husband had served in the army, and she herself, for many years lived in and around army posts, appeared before the board and made aplication for the position.

District Attorney Swart in speaking of the necessity of having someone look after the young girls who are drawn to the vicinity of army camps, recited how Major Pops, former provost guard at Camp Fremont, had appeared before the recent grand jury in th matter, and had explained that the military authorities were unable to take care of these girls, but had urged that the county take some action in this regard.

Following a short executive session the board, on motion of Hickey, seconded by Brown, appointed Mrs. Shaffer to the position of special woman protective officer in the county at a salary of $85 a month.

Previous to the appointment of Mrs. Shaffer, Attorney J. E. McCurdy of San Mateo, in behalf of the Rapid Transit Company, addressed the board and offered free transportation in the company's busses to the person selected to carry on this work in the county.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

Doings at Peninsula Garden Spot As Told in Breezy Style By Our Reporters

"Cleopatria" will be at the Fremont Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

A train containg ten cars filled with drafted men arrived at Camp Fremont on Thursday. The men were without uniforms but expect to don the khaki in a few days.

The election of two trustees and an assessor for the Menlo Park Sanitary District will take place on March 11. The terms of Timothy Hopkins and E. J. Pringle and Assessor J. B. Kelly will expire and all are candidates for re-election.

Lieutenant Stanley Thompson of University Heights arrived here from Georgia where he had been for some months. He has been transferred from the south to the Sixty Third Infantry stationed at the Presidio. The young lieutenant expects to go "over there" before long.

Weeden Brothers have been awarded a contract by the Bank of Palo Alto to erect a one-story structure on the property on the corner of the extension of Santa Cruz avenue and the highway recently purchased by the bank from Charles Merrill. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

L. R. Dains, for some time the popular agent at Sunnyvale, has been appointed the agent here to succeed Mr. Simpson, who some time ago was appointed the agent at Salinas. Mr. Dains being unable to secure a house here was compelled to rent one at Redwood City. He has an interesting family. Mr. Dains may later remove to Menlo Park.

About 200 members of base hospital No. 74 will leave today for the east to be sent from there to France. The corps is nearly all made up of Californians. The young men made many friends during their stay at Camp Fremont. Last night all were bidding farewell to their friends and sweethearts in town. There will be numerous sad farewells this morning as the train pulls out for the east.

The new siren for the Menlo Park fire department has arrived and has been installed in the Menlo Park garage where the fire engine and other apparatus is located. It has been thoroughly tested and gives entire satisfaction. Very soon the fire territory will be laid out in districts so that the location of a fire may be determined by the number of blasts from the siren after the system in vogue at Redwood City and Palo Alto.

Menlo Park is the first town on the peninsula to have the services of a policewoman. Mrs. E. S. Schaffer was appointed at a meeting of the board of supervisors last Monday. She resides at San Bruno and is the wife of a soldier who passed away some time ago. He saw services in the Philippines and was accompanied to the islands by his wife. The new coppette is very strict, inquiring into anything she deems not proper. She goes on duty at 5 o'clock in the evening and patrols the streets until one o'clock next morning.

The Regent of Palo Alto has rented a portion of the new bank building being erected on the corner of Santa Cruz avenue extension and the highway by the Bank of Palo Alto. The Regent is one of the best known stores on the peninsula. It will carry a full line of military and civilian clothing and lady's wearing apparel. The Regent is to be commended for its enterprise and branching out and locating in Menlo Park where it will receive splendid support. Then, too, the community is to be congratulated in having such an up-to-date store in its midst. Menlo Park is certainly pushing forward and is putting on municipal airs.

Many cannot understand why the health officer of Palo Alto should have jurisdiction over this place when there is a county officer whose duty it is to inquire into all violations of th health laws. The laundries here are compelled to pay a license of $3 a month to the Palo Alto official. Unless they do so laundrymen cannot deliver packages to Palo Alto. All local plants must first be inspected by the Colleg City official. The authorities of San Mateo county are looking into the matter and it would not be surprising if some harsh and drastic retaliatory measures would be adopted by the board of supervisors.

Arthur Midgley, the popular bicycle manufacturer, was called by the San Mateo County Exemption board during the week and passed the physical examination. He is awaiting to be called to duty. His brother, Albert, has also been called and he too awaits to be sent to some cantonment. Duncan Reynard, who was born in England but came to this country when a boy, will have to serve in the English army. He was notified this week to appear at the Canadian headquarters in San Francisco. He wants to join the American forces and he no doubt will be given that privilege which will not be in violation of the recent treaty signed by the Allied countries. Several other young men in town have been called before the San Mateo board for examination. Many of those who were formerly rejected by that board will now be assigned to clerical duties in the service.

Mrs. G. Broggi has been removed to the Peninsula hosital. During the week her life was dispaired of but as we go to press much encouragement is held out for her recovery.

The sermon on divorce to be delivered in the Church of the Nativity by Father Hannigan tomorrow at both masses should be heard by all persons irrespective of religious affiliations.

Walter H. Linforth, wife and pretty daughter, Miss Waltha, have moved down from the city for the summer. They arrived yesterday. Mr. Linforth is a leader of the San Francisco bar.

Las Lomitas school has a one hundred per cent enrollment of pupils for the National Red Cross Society. The teachers, Miss Bertha Kuck and Miss Lewellyn have worked diligently to attain this end.

All the society folks in and around Menlo Park and Atherton have taken it upon themselves to lay out and beautify the grounds surrounding the base hospital at Ravenswood. The twenty-five acres of land about the base hospital will be laid out at once and the choicest plants and shrubbery and spacious lawns put in. A meeting was held last evening at which plans were made for this commendable work. Competent landscape gardeners will be employed at once to inaugurate action and start planting. It is the aim of the promoters to make this one of the most attractive places on the peninsula. Among those interested in the affair are James L. Flood, Abe Stern, Sig. Stern, C. W. Smith, Mrs. J. Leroy Nickel, Timothy Hopkins, Mrs. A. J. Marcus, J. A. Donohoe, Herbert Fleishhacker and others.

E. L. Phillips, Wells, Rargo agent at Merced has been appointed the agent at Menlo Park to relieve J. G. Mason, who has been temporarily filling the place. Mr. Phillips cannot secure a home here and for the time being will reside with his father at San Jose. He will move his family here as soon as he can secure a dwelling.

REV. M. O'RIORDAN CALLED BY DEATH

Rev. M. O'Riordan, pastor of the Church of the Nativity here over fifteen years ago, passed away at Mary's Help Hospital in San Franacisco Friday of last week after a lingering illness. Father O'Riordan was the pastor here for nearly eighteen years. The parish then comprised Mayfield, Menlo Park and Redwood City. Father O'Riordan was on energetic devout priest and did much good work while here. He came to Menlo Park from Stockton succeeding Father Spreckels, who afterwards died in a monestary in France. The funeral took place from St. Andrew's church in Oakland, of which church he was the pastor for the past two years, on Tuesday, many friends from here attending. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Oakland. The deceased was a native of Limerick, aged 68 years. He received his education in Maynouth and after his ordination came to California in 1874. After leaving here he became the pastor of the Catholic church at Berkeley. For a number of years he was the chaplain of Providence hospital at Oakland.

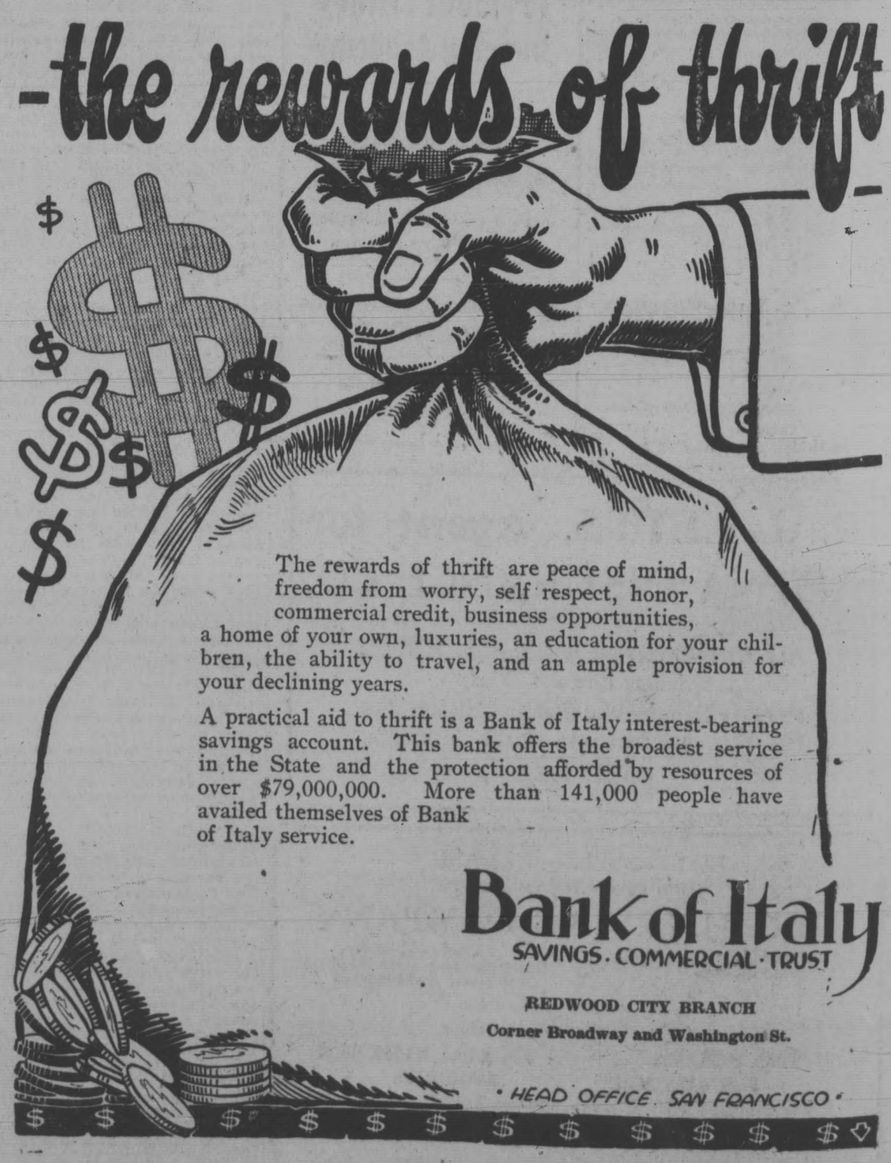
-the rewards of thrift-



The rewards of thrift are peace of mind, freedom from worry, self respect, honor, commercial credit, business opportunities, a home of your own, luxuries, an education for your children, the ability to travel, and an ample provision for your declining years.

A practical aid to thrift is a Bank of Italy interest-bearing savings account. This bank offers the broadest service in the State and the protection afforded by resources of over $79,000,000. More than 141,000 people have availed themselves of Bank of Italy service.
